

HASSAN SHARIF

Hassan Sharif (1951-2016) made a vital contribution to conceptual art and experimental practice in the Middle East through forty years of performance, installation, drawing, painting, and assemblage. Prior to leaving the U.A.E to study in London in 1979, Sharif gained attention for his cartoons published in the U.A.E press—ironic, outspoken critiques of the rapid industrialisation of the Emirates and the political deadlock of 1970s Arab Nationalism. As an artist, he rejected calligraphic abstraction, which was becoming the dominant discourse in the Middle East at that time, and pursued instead a pointedly contemporary vocabulary, drawing on the non-elitism and intermedia of Fluxus and the potential in British Constructionism's systemic processes of making.

Sharif graduated from The Byam Shaw School of Art (now part of Central Saint Martins) in 1984 and returned to the U.A.E shortly thereafter. He set about staging interventions and the first exhibitions of contemporary art in Sharjah, as well as translating art historical texts and manifestos into Arabic to provoke the local audience to engage with—or at least reject— contemporary art discourse. Beginning in 1982, Sharif began to formulate and document private performances of mundane activities (e.g. discussing art in a toilet cubicle with the faculty of The Byam Shaw School, jumping or digging holes in the U.A.E desert). Simultaneously, he began work on what he referred to as Experiments—formal exercises, like counting cars on a street in Dubai or tracing every instance of the letter 't' on a page of The Daily Mail newspaper. These absurdist and purposely boring practices were initially performed, in part, as an ironic response to the functionality of economics and globalisation: uselessness as a gesture. This critical stance, what he termed 'positive irony,' has since been expanded in subsequent works in other media.

Sharif started creating his Objects in the 1980s using found industrial materials or mass-produced items purchased in markets and stores around the U.A.E. Weaving these objects together with rope, coil and twine, the heaps and bundles that Sharif created became visualisations of the surplus of mass-production—the commonly unseen by-product of the U.A.E's globalised, consumerist society that had developed since the country's formation. His Objects – which handed cheap, mass-produced, or discarded materials back to society as artworks—were a vital instrument in provoking and engaging

U.A.E audiences with contemporary art in the 1980s. Sharif's Semi-Systems were initially informed by British Constructionism, particularly Kenneth Martin's notion of 'Chance and Order.' He invented a set of rules, following this system, to create line drawings that transform within a grid, and colour, studies on paper. Sharif reveled in the mistakes and slippages occurring naturally in the monotonous creation of the work, believing that "'art' is a result of errors."

In addition to his own practice, he also encouraged and supported several generations of artists in the Emirates. Sharif was a founding member of the Emirates Fine Arts Society (1980) and the Art Atelier in the Youth Theatre and Arts in Dubai. In 2007, he was one of the four artists to establish The Flying House, a Dubai institution for promoting contemporary Emirati artists.

The first Emirati to have his work shown in the Arab Museum of Modern Art in Doha, Qatar, Sharif was also among the selected artists to represent the U.A.E. during its first national pavilion at the Venice Biennale in 2009. In 2011, Sharif was the subject of a retrospective exhibition, Hassan Sharif: Experiments & Objects 1979–2011, curated by Catherin David and Mohammed Kazem and presented by the Abu Dhabi Authority for Culture & Heritage/Platform for Visual Arts, U.A.E. His work has been shown in recent exhibitions including In the Heart of Another Country: The Diasporic Imagination Rises, Sharjah Art Foundation, Sharjah, UAE (2023) following its debut at Deichtorhallen Hamburg (2022); The Art Library Exhibitions: Woven, Misk Art Institute, Riyadh, Saudi Arabia (2023); Emirati Art Reimagined: Hassan Sharif and the Contemporary Voices, Christie's, London, UK (2023); among others. In 2022, Hassan Sharif's atelier was re-constituted at a Whitechapel Gallery's exhibition, A Century of the Artist's Studio, a major historical undertaking. His works are held in the collections of the Sharjah Art Foundation, Sharjah; MAMCO, Geneva; Centre Pompidou, Paris; Tate, London; Guggenheim New York and Abu Dhabi; Fondation Louis Vuitton, Paris; Mathaf: Arab Museum of Modern Art, Doha; Barjeel Art Foundation, Sharjah; Louvre Abu Dhabi, Abu Dhabi; M+ Museum, Hong Kong; Museum of Contemporary Art (MOCA), Yinchuan, to name a few.
